

SETTING THE BALL-A-ROLLIN'

Football, the great winter sport, has a rousing "kick-off" in summer-like weather.

-Arsenal V Birmingham, at Highbury-

Picture.

The season's first game at Highbury. Fifty thousand people packed like sardines in a tin and nearly as oily. Arsenal team has never had a warmer reception eighty one in the shade--seems more like a hundred and eighty one. There's Birmingham. They look much cooler than they can possibly feel. Alee James wins the toss and the football season is on. It's just twenty years ago since they played their first match on this ground. This should be a good match

Arsenal paid a paid a transfer --look out! sorry

a transfer fee of ten thousand pounds for David Jack and nine thousand for Alee James

Bradford has scored.

EFFECTS

Birmingham has got the first goal scored in London this season

Arsenal looks like equalising. I should say they will--no, over the bar

EFFECTS

Birmingham again press it--they're having the best of the game--Moss has cleared--but Jack equalises for Arsenal and makesva drawn game.
