Picture.:- Their Royal Highnesses are on their way from Kyle of Lochalsh to the so-called--

--"never-never" town of Scotland, Portree, the only town on the Isle of Skye. ... The Royal visitors are-- --travelling as mere-or-less ordinary visitors and appear to enjoy being 'ferried' across to the Island.

The ruins of Castle Maol form a striking background to the scene--

--as the Duke and Duchess of York set foot on Skye. ... The first official--

--royal visitors since the year 1540. It is --little wonder that most of the population are prepared to give them--

--a hearty welcome.

(BRING UP CROWD AND GAR EFFERT TO END OF SHOT).

After spending the night at Dunvegan Castle, the seat--

--of Macleod of Macleod, the Duke and Duchess motor to Portree--

--the Capital of the "Misty Isle", there to be present at the opening of--

--this splendid school hostel, a gift to the-- --people from the Carnegie Trust.

Later the Duke honours the war heroes of Skye by placing a wreath on the simple memorial. ... The island gave its quota for the Motherland in her hour of need. ....

In referring to the Isle of Skye, the Duke said "I have-- --always heard that the romance and beauty of this island---
--make it fascinating to all lovers of nature, and that it has been--
--called "The Misty Isle", but I would like to add-- --another title - - 'The Isle of Kind and Loyal Hearts'".
Skye will remember those words !
