

MISS BRITAIN III - - Mr.H.Scott-Paine breaks
the British sea-mile record with his famous speedboat before she burst into flames!

Picture.:- With only two days rest after his voyage from America, Mr.Scott-Paine races again.

"Miss Britain III" is tuned up, and ready for action !
The boat is designed--

--and built by Mr.Scott-Paine. He expects to smash--

--the record of 92 $\frac{1}{2}$ --

--miles per hour set up by the late Sir Henry Segrave.

He's just starting up ! (EFFECTS).

It's a great thrill ! The racer is hurling itself along, as if it has been fired from a torpedo tube.
Incredibly swift !

He's returning now ! I am told he has beaten the official record of 86, and also the Segrave record of 93.
But I can't swear to it ! I have no official figures yet.

Scott Paine has agreed to go out again. This is an exhibition run, in order not to disappoint the thousands who arrived at the advertised time. He went out earlier than he expected.
Well, it's a sight well-worth having seen.

Something's happened ! The boat is in flames and enveloped in smoke. It's caught fire somehow. Where-- --are the two men on board. Lots of-- --boats are going to her help. I think Scott-Paine and his mechanic are safe, but what a moment of thrilling anxiety !

One of the fire-fighters was Mr.Willocks, who survived Sir Henry Segrave's--

--Widmermere crash three years ago. A victorious and disastrous day in the record breaking business.
