

2-198151

AIR RECORD BROKEN.

Picture.

CLOSE-UP ENGINE	- NATURAL SOUND.
CLOSE-UP AVIATOR	- NATURAL SOUND.
PLANE.	- NATURAL SOUND.
CLOSE-UP ENGINE	- NATURAL SOUND.

Gustave Lemoine starts his attempt on the world's altitude record, at present held by Britain.

CLOSE-UP ENGINE	- NATURAL SOUND.
IN AIR	- NATURAL SOUND.
CLOSE-UP ENGINE	- NATURAL SOUND.

The attempt was successful. Monsieur Lemoine succeeded in reaching the height of 45-thousand, two-hundred-and-seventy-five feet - -

--nearly eight-and-a-half miles. 1400 feet better than Captain Unwin's British effort.

There's the recording barograph,--

--and there the man ! Now world's record holder.

"Are you very tired" he's asked. He replies "Not at all". "It was cold up there. Fifty degrees below zero. Was the visibility good ? "Not too bad", says Monsieur Lemoine. I could still see the Seine and the Loire.