

TYNESIDE HONOURED.

Picture:- The boys of Wellesley Nautical School are making a day --

--of it to-day. Prince George pays a visit.

He is welcomed by the Mayor of Blyth, other civic officials and Commander Stone, R.N.--

--Master of the School. No such visit is complete--

--without a guard of honour. The boys supply this one, and Prince George--

--inspects them, and then moves off to inspect their School.

No nautical entertainment is complete without a hornpipe,--

--so the boys supply that, too!

Breeches buoy exercise is novel, and the boys, b - o - y - --

-- s - again this time make an excellent show.

Some day they may have to do that under strenuous conditions.

Much cheering and wap waving follows the Royal gift of a half-holiday.

This visit of His Royal Highness has--

--caused tremendous excitement in Blyth. Northern loyalty--

--is second to none, and Blyth demonstrates it yet again.
