NEWMARKET TOWN PLATE.

Picture:-

If you don't like this race, you must blame King Charles II. He started the trouble by inaugurating a race in which women jockeys could-- --compete on equal terms with men, and they have been competing ever since, but not only--

--in racing. Mr. Simpson is the only male riding to-day.

He's won seventeen times already. There they go ! Five girls against one man ! Terrible odds ! Miss Audrey Bell, last year's winner, is among the runners. Mrs. Heald's dark curls are flying in the breeze,--

--and Miss Glover's blonde hair gleams in the sunshine.

In fact, if good-looks go for anything--

--Mr. Simpson is already badly beaten. Miss Gladys Waldron--

--has won on her mount "Journey's End". She got away last and finished first. Her horse was second in 1931,--

--and third last year. So it's a case of 'third time lucky'.

For her win Miss Waldron receives a silver cup. It would have-- --been most unmannerly for Mr. Simpson to win !
