ALPINE CHARM.

VIEWED FROM ABOVE.
CAMERAMAN'S WINTER FLIGHT.
-Switzerland-

---

Picture:- It's a pity you can't all actually--

--go on this wonderful trip yourselves. But you can--

--be guests of UNIVERSAL NEWS. From St. Moritz to Zurich--

--by 'plane. The sunny Upper Engadine lies spread below us.
An unending--

--succession of high mountains in their immaculate winter mantle extends--

--in sublime beauty before our eyes. Three-thousandfeet below is the Albula Pass.

These are regions where the ice is eternal. We have just--

--passed over the peak of Pix d'Aela, and are just about to pass--

--the tiny village of Zeuz. There it is, looking like a model for--

--an Alpine film. Note how those--

--clouds lie like cotton wool between the range peaks.
You can just--

--imagine you're really there. Imagination goes a long way.

And there lies Zurich. The air up--

--there is like wine, but we will get down and try the bottled variety--

--with lunch. You can just imagine that, too.
