STUDENT GOLD-DIGGERS.

RAIDS FOR CHARITY.
"THE MONSTER HELPS".

-Glasgow & Birkenhead-

Picture.:-

It seems all wrong, but these are some 1934 Scottish "gold-diggers". Glasgow students want fifteen-thousand--

--pounds. There's one three-penny bit towards it. They-- --want to make this effort their monster collection, so they--

--do the topically obvious - - enlist the Loch Ness monster - - which, alive, dead, or non-existent, has-- --proved a money-making, although perhaps fishy, attraction. The Merseyside has--

--its monster, too. A circus proprietor offered two thousand pounds--

--for the real one. Liverpool students hope to raise ten-thousand pounds--

--for this one. It's a glutton for dough !

That monster has been a godsend to the popular press and Northern Scotland. Let's hope it will prove an even greater godsend to the hospital funds.
