

C-111041

VILLAGE FOR THE NATION.

"TYPICALLY ENGLISH".
WEST WYCOMBE TO BE PRESERVED.

-Buckinghamshire-

---

Picture.:-

This typically old English village has--
--been bought up loek, stock, and barrels.

Most examples of old English timbered dwellings--
--are falling beneath the ruthless hands of--

--modernity, but the Royal Society of Arts has-- --purchased this beauty spot for the-- --national trust. That kneeling stone is-- --very unique - - said to be worn away by devout--

--villagers. Chair-making is the local industry. Done by village--

--artists who scorn machine-turned monstrosities. Well, it's nice --

--to know that West Wycombe, at least, is not "going west".