BRITAIN'S SHOP WINDOW.

INDUSTRIES FAIR.
ROYAL PATRONAGE.

-London-

Picture.:- Olympia throws its doors open for the British Industries Fair. Among the first visitors are Her Majesty the Queen, and the Duke and Duchess of York. The eyes of the world's merchants are upon this great British enterprise, and many traders--

--from far countries will attend. Her Majesty, and the Royal Party move--

--freely about the exhibition, inspecting the products of--

--British brains, and hands, in diverse--

--arts and crafts. With delightful informality the Queen congratulates officials responsible for the tremendous work--

--of organisation. Simultaneously with this opening another exhibition section of heavy industries was opened at Birmingham.

After a considerable stay the Queen--

--and the Duke and Duchess depart. Her Majesty has promised another visit later in the week.
