GRAND NATIONAL

VIEWING "THE JUMPS".
CROWDS AT AINTREE.

Grand National Sunday ! Crowds wander along the course at Aintree to examine the jumps. Valentine's--
--Brook, a famous and fateful obstacle, comes in for a--
--lot of attention. That's the ditch my money went down last year.

The course is considered--

--to be in excellent condition. There's Becher's Brook, where many a 'punter' has lost--

--his shirt, socks, collar, and tie. And let me introduce--

--the world's biggest li-optimist. He says he knows the winning horse. A personal friend, but loyalty for the old school keeps his name in a sealed envelope. Sixpence !
