TENNIS "BY NUMBERS".
NURSES AS "RACKETEERS".

-Stratford-

Picture.:- The nurses of Queen Mary's Hospital, Stratford, are learning how to carry through a different kind of operation. Slicing, cutting, smashing, are part--

--of the training being given by Mr. H. Brown--

--the tennis coach. The nurses are entering for the inter-Hospital lawn-tennis tournament, and--

--they want to make at a whacking--

--success. A spot of drill for the back-hand stroke. A nice smooth stroke useful for sympathetic nurses and convalescent--

--patients. Advancing to receive their opponent's service. To--

--demonstrate what a real game of tennis should be like--

--Tom Hughes, brother of the international player at the far end, wearing--

--shorts, plays Mr. Brown. When next a patient peevishly--

--ask for his pink pill, he will probably hear the ping--

--of a racket, and the bolus will--

--be lobbed over the end of his bed, with 'One-love, your service !'
