INTERNATIONAL CROSS-COUNTRY
CHAMPIONSHIP.

ENGLAND'S EASY VICTORY.
SEVEN NATIONS COMPETE AT AYR.

-Scotland-

Picture.:- The English team for the Inter-national Cross-Country championship.

Here are the Belgians, who have come all the way --
--to Ayr. There's E. Thomas, of Wales, fooling around before-- --getting down to serious work. France has also sent--
--a representative team of runners. Northern Ireland -- well, the start--
--is about due. There they go ! Teams from six countries.

The Scottish champion Flockhart, of Shettleston Harriers, Glasgow, is leading, with J. Holden, English international champion, close at his heels. Scotland has great hopes of-- --stealing the title in this event, but England has got other--

--ideas about that, and here is Holden gaining the individual victory. Burns, Elswick, is coming in second. Holden receives--

--a laurel wreath from Lady Glasgow with modest embarrassment, and hastily removes it before posing for this last close-up.
