

JOY DAY ON THE CLYDE.

WORK RE-STARTED ON GIANT CUNARDER.
PIPERS "PLAY IN" THE WORKERS.

Picture.:-

A few hours and this now deserted shell of the giant Cunarder will be echoing with the clangour of-- --working thousands. Clydebank will soon be its old noisy--

--ear-splitting self. To make matters gayer and noisier, kilted--

--pipers play the lucky men back to work. You will notice--

--that the effort at gaiety is not too successful.
Seotamen take their pleasures seriously. Smiles don't-- --come so readily after a year of waiting for work.

It is thankfulness they feel rather than--

--joy. Some of these same workers left their jobs unfinished three years ago when--

--notice of suspension was posted. Now it's full speed--

--ahead, and here's hoping that the luck doesn't slow down for a few years, Scotties !
