Picture.:- France's Grand National steeplechase at--

--Auteuil. A big fashionable Parisian--

--crowd see a ragged start for this trial of equine endurance. This is the Race for the President's Prize,--

--and there's the President himself,--

--giving politics a temporary go-bye in favour of sport. The favourite--

--Jean Victor, owned by Madame Coolidge, is first--

--over the Water Jump. One -

--horse prefers to finish the race without a jockey. "Jean Victor"--

--wins by a short length only.

Picture.:- Edinburgh. Paul Harris, founder of the Rotary Movement pays a visit--

--to the Northern Capital. Pipers precede--

--the Lord Provost who comes to greet--

--the veteran Rotarian, giving a hearty hand-shake to Mrs. Harris and her husband. As one of the--

--early Rotarians of the first--

--Club in Britain, I congratulate President on his achievement.

Picture.:- Nila Cook, one of the happiest looking girls I have ever seen has just been deported from India--

--with her six-year-old son. For three years she was a disciple of Mahatma Gandhi. She is now reported to be fed up with the East and she celebrates--

--her arrival back by taking a second husband. That's the worst of these cruises.
