OX-ROASTING IN THE STREET.

WISBECH CELEBRATES BOROUGH-MERGING.
WISBECH AND WALSOKEN.

Wisbech welcomes another four-thousand residents within its boundaries. It celebrates by cooking a whole ox, and a--
--roasted ox at that. The event has caused the-- --largest 'meat' of the season. The districts of-- --Wisbech and Walsoken have become--
--a joint business. Henceforth they will look up ^{with} and respect
--to the same local corporation doing its duty within the--
--new borough boundaries. The first slice, chunk, lump of--
--the ox is chopped up by His Worship the Mayor,--
--who hopes that the relations between the newly-- --wedded districts will be as sweet as--
--the chef's cooking. After that--
--everybody starts in--
--to make the fatted ox--
--take on a lean and hungry look.

By the way, the important districts of Wisbech and--
--Walsoken are in Cambridgeshire if--
--case you have forgotten, or never knew. Some say--
--the inhabitants of Walsoken are fed up. No wonder. Just look at that.
