This ship may bring a load of trouble for Scotland.

The American Walker Cup Golf team arrives at Glasgow.
There they are !

John Goodman, American open champion. George Dunlap, amateur champion, and Max Marston.

Chandler Egan, Jack Westland, Francis Quimet, already known and respected by British golfers.

And Bill Fischer - - Lawson Little - - Gus Moorland.
Fischer and Moorland fall for a--

--suggestion of a Scottish steward to give him free--

--lessons. They agreed, providing he supplied the balls.
The sea is a--

--bad hazard, but being Scotch the steward had thought--

--all that out, so his lessons cost two shillings,--

--and a piece of string. That technique should assist in winning the Cup for Britain.
