Another celebration, less exciting, but more colourful. Japanese residents of--

--Salinas, California, are dedicating a new--

--bell for the--

--local Buddhist Temple--

--to call Buddhist men, women and--

--children to prayer.

After the dedication Japanese youngsters are baptised by the Buddhist-- --priest, Shocho Otani, which --

--baptism is accomplished by passing a gold razor over--

--the kiddies' heads, and all that is in America. While--

--invention to vary the monotony of ordinary thrills.

On them the inventor is shooting the rapids of the River Enns. A rough job, where every indication points to a ducking when least expecting it. Either faith in his--

--invention, or skill keeps him in a perpendicular position, more or less. His friend follows in a canoe, and wonders who is going--

--to rescue the other, if and when occasion arises. The trip is accomplished--

--not swimmingly, but nevertheless successfully.
