SCULLING AND WALKING RACE.

Picture:- On the Thames Eric Phelps carries his skiff to the-- --water and to the start--

--of the Christmas Handicap Race for one-hundred pounds
It's a vile day but--

--as Phelps is ahead, he doesn't mind. The visibility is--

--bad. The first under Hammersmith Bridge is the winner, and that one Eric Phelps, son of a famous water-side--

--family. It is-- --likely that Eric will be challenger for--

--the world's sculling championship.

(7)

And here are 50 challengers for the honour of winning the Croydon to Godstone walking race. It's probably in their minds that a nice walk after--

--overeating during the holidays will have a good effect. R.W. Astill takes the lead at Croydon, but Stone-

--of Polytechnic walks him closely. At Godstone rounding the buoy, or man, Astill is definitely in the lead, and if his feet hold out he'll keep ahead. Well, you know--

--what I mean ! To make a bad finishing picture, a gentleman blocks our view, and the car nearly runs us over.

But Astill wins to the tune of "Chair, boys, chair."
