

5-411141

A U S T R I A N M A N O E U V R E S .
CAVALRY "IN ACTION".

Picture.:-

Despite the mechanisation of weapons of warfare cavalry still make--

--spectacular sorties on the countryside plains.

Austrian horse regiments train severely. This scene is no more--

--unusual for Viennese outskirts than are our strings of race horses seen on Newmarket Heath. Cavalry regiments--

--evolutions are looked upon more as spectacular--

--disciplinary displays than as utility measures. Although this part looks--

--like dirty work.

(EFFECTS).

The call to charge gives rather a thrilling picture of that old--

--time method of battering down an enemy by sheer weight of man and force. If we must have it, that method seems preferable--

--to poison gas, explosive bullets, H.E. shells, and all the various charming gestures--

--of foe against foe in our quaintly chivalrous modern slaughter game.