WEDDING AT WESTMINSTER.

PAGEANTRY MARRED BY RAIN.

Picture.:- St. Margaret's, Westminster ! A--

--society wedding which had weather so wetly--

--wet that the charmingly attired--

--child bridesmaids had to be carried--

--from their cars to the Church, much to -- --the interest of the larbe--

--crowd. Miss Angela Dudley--

--Ward, the bride, arrives to wed Captain Robert Laycock of the-Royal

--Horse Guards.

The bride wears a gown of silver and white Venetian brocade, and the usual traditional--

--but inexplicable lengthy train extended from the-- --skirt of the dress. Owing to the weather--

--everybody had difficulty in getting a peep at--

--Miss Ward. Our camera was doing well until this happened, and we got a 'close shot' of traffic instead of a beautiful--

--bride and bridegroom getting somewhat damp in their dash for the car. However, these little-- --things are sent to try--

--us, but we did manage to get the crowd of distinguished--

--guests defying the weather; The bride's young retinue being

--stowed in a charabane, and everybody wishing the happy couple good luck.
