KATE KENNEDY DAY.

PAGEANT AT ST. ANDREW'S.

---

Picture.:-

University students of St.Andrew's--

--do honour to the memory of a great Scottish lady, Catherine Kennedy, daughter of Bishop Kennedy, who in 1450 founded the-- --original St.Andrew's College of San Salvatore. Students burn most-- --things into a rag, but this event used to be a rag and is now turned into a 'pukka'--

--historical pageant. Almost every personage in Scottish history has-- --been connected in some way or the other with the University. And they're all here !

Portrayed with costumed fidelity. Lady Kate Kennedy visits the house of Principal--

--Sir James Irvine.

By the way actually Kate is no lady. Her femininity is gracefully reproduced by--

--a quite masculine medical student yeleft Anderson, to whom, in respect of his portrayal, and--

--the long dead lady herself, all raise their hats, and the collection (what, again !) raised a lot of money for local charities.
