

FLEET-FOOTED SCOTSMEN.

CROSS-COUNTRY CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Picture.:-

Will you excuse us for a moment ! The ladies are not quite ready. The censor is so particular about undressing scenes.

Here we are ! In a biting East wind, waiting--

--to get off, or - - getting off on the Scottish Women's Cross-Country Championship run. The race--

--starts from Auchensairn, a place which must be related--

--to Auchtermuchty. To a woman, obstacles like these-- --are easy to surmount. It takes more than a bunch of--

--common hawthorn (break)

--to trip up a modern girl. Miss Mildred Storrar, of Dundee, is the present champion, and Milly--

--again gets home yards ahead of her fellow girls. Miss Violet Murray--

--also of Marmalade Town is second, and Miss Miller of Greenock,--

--is third. Miss Storrar therefore retains her title, and belt, I mean, cup.
