

WATCHMEN OF THE NIGHT.

FIRST CONTINGENT ON PARADE.

---

Picture.:-

Witness the inauguration of a new public service, although it is at present--

--operated by a private company.

The Night Watchmen's Corps. If you are--

--apprehensive about burglars, or similar--

--gentry, you just ring up--

--for one of these fellows, and sleep peacefully, or snore noisily--

--with nothing on your mind. Unless you have been--

--doing those things which you ought--

--not to have done.

The new Corps is inspected by its--

--Commander, Captain Roberson, O.B.E. The men are largely recruited from ex-service ranks. Everyone--

--is a picked man of--

--unimpeachable character and reliability. They are trained in fire-fight, first-aid, and other useful accomplishments, such as the use of--

--a straight left. Most people will surely welcome such a--

--service. Although, I understand from friends at Dartmoor that members of the 'Burglars' Union' are very annoyed about it.
