GRAND NATIONAL SUNDAY.

VIEWING THE JUMPS.

Picture. :-

The Grand National Sunday parade ! About 200-thousand entries for the-- --last walk over before the horses cast their eyes over the--

--jumps and cast their jockeys over their heads. Valentine's--

--Brook looks as difficult as ever. Not one of the jumps is less than four-feet--

--six high, and three-feet wide. There's Becher's Brook, not yet--

--overflowed by the tears of unfortunate punters. Many an eye

--goes crossed as tales are told of fortunes just missed because--

--their so-and-so horse tried to roll home, instead of ride. Well, advice is cheap. Sixpence for the winning horse. Delivered in plain sealed envelope.
