The cross which dominates the dome of St Pauls ----

---Cathedral is to receive-----

--- a new coat of gilt for----

----the Kings visit. -----

--- There's a high wind-----

--- and I think the crowd is waiting-----

-----to see if any-----

-----workman gets blown down. The cross is twenty-----

-----feet across and four hundred feet above ground-----

---level but this glider is higher. Miss Joan Meakin has been towed by aeroplane from Germany to England. Miss Meakin has been studying gliding in Cologne and holds the woman's record for looping the glider loop. After a perfect-----

-----landing she is met by her most constant male-----

--- friend, a pet hound. His enthusiasm----- knows all bounds. Of course-----

-----the first thing the heroine thinks about on landing-----

--- is her crown and glory. We congratulate Miss Meakin on her gliding feat and what she-----

-----can do with a simple comb with no mirror to guide her.
