EPIC RAID COMMEMORATED.

Picture.:-

"Royal Daffodil II" which has replaced the original Mersey ferryboat--

--which took part in the Zeebrugge--

--Raid, holds its own Remembrance Service. The Mayor of Wallasey inspects Old Comrades--

--of the Royal Marines. Wreaths are then solemnly laid as a tribute to the dead who went out--

--on this hazardous adventure. An--

--operation which at the time astonished the world by its very audacity, and altered the course of the War's naval history.

Hundreds of relatives of the--

--living and dead watch the ceremony. The Mayor lays his wreath. The old 'DAFFODIL' played an-- --important part in the action which battered up the enemy's submarines.

The old ship's funnel offers mute testimony--

--to the enemy's marksmanship, well remembered by--

--this survivor, Private Grayken of the Royal Marines.
