

2-424141

JUBILEE DAY.

PROVINCIAL CELEBRATIONS.

Escture.:-

A short Jubilee Tour round the country. York celebrates with a-- parade of--

--troops including a detachment of dismounted lancers. It isn't often one sees lances being carried by troops on foot.

The crowds are dense, and flag-wagging is--

--the chief sport for--

--the moment. Major-General Jackson, C.B., D.S.O., supported by the Lord--

--Mayor takes the salute. The Union Jack--

--is lowered and replaced by the--

--Royal Standard. A salute to His Majesty. Everybody looks happy and the unemployed--

--have received vouchers for 4/- worth of groceries, and if the Jubilee Year brings them--

--a job soon, they will be gladder than ever. / At Wakefield,--

--a very original idea should--

--cause many to remember His Majesty's 25th Accession Day. 230,000 school children are presented--

--by Viscount Halifax with a souvenir savings bank book of the Penny Bank, with 1/- already

--placed to credit in each.

This should stimulate children--

--to save, when they get any money.

With the books goes a tea, and with--

--the tea, jammy fingers for the books.

C-424141

Crowds in Edinburgh again see the Royal Scots Greys clattering down Princess Street, under the shadow of the hill, topped by the famous castle. Here again--

--the very young are schooled in flag law.

In this case, St. Andrew's Cross must, of course, be --given deep consideration. On the Royal Scottish Academy steps--

--the salute is taken by General Sir Archibald Cameron,--

--K.C.B., General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Scottish Command. The first Battalion Gordon Highlanders make a marvellous Scottish picture--

--as they pass the saluting base, carrying--

--the King's Colours and the Regimental Colours. Of course, the celebration wasn't all--

--military. The wine of the country flowed as usual,--

--only more so. And at night, Arthur's Seat called-- --to the Highlands with its beacon. But this--

--Beacon is in Hyde Park.

The chain of fire is started from--

--Buckingham Palace by the King--

--pressing a switch. This was--

--certainly one of the brightest ideas thrown up by the--

--Jubilee Celebrations, and one which the whole country--

--seized upon. There's the Cheshire link--

--of fire blazing at Alderley Edge. A hill up which--

--thousands climbed to pay tribute to His Majesty

That's Manchester's Royal Salute ! Lord Derby, Lord
Lieutenant of--

--the County does several good Jubilee--

--deeds. One of them is the inspection of the local contingent of ex-service men. Lord--

--Derby then goes to--

--Liverpool (EFFECTS).

(EFFECTS).

Sefton Park ! The 7th Battalion The King's Regiment troops--

--the Colour before the Lord Lieutenant and the Lord Mayor,--

--and unpteen thousand Liverpudlians. There are actually twenty-two--

--units taking part in the show. This Colour is the R.N.V.R
Mersey Division. The parade is only one--

--item in the ambitious--

--program so successfully carried through by Liverpool--

--and environs. Now for a --

--complete change we will cross over--

--to Salford, and see--

--what a poor district can do, when it is--

--rich in loyalty. Paradise Street is one of those--

--streets which seem so named--

--through sheer unshedness, but to-day's happiness makes the name less impossible. Hardship is forgotten.

There's a wonderful effort by an amateur artist.
We really are a marvellous people.