

G R E T A · G A R B O

HOME AT LAST.

---

Picture:- The Swedish liner 'Kungsholm' arrives at Gottenberg.
My friend George--

--tipped me off that Karin Lundh--

--was on board. Karin Lundh being no less--

--a person than Greta Garbo. George had heard her say "I want to go home and be alone." So he-- --said "O.K.", and then "Mix on that. I said I would be seeing the dame, and--

--aint I ?" "All right I'm not grumbling. You have got the picture--

--and it's the-- --first news cine interview ever granted--

--by the Garbo. "And I put her on the spot !" "You did, George, but shut up now !" Miss Garbo dismisses--

--the pressmen, very nearly, and goes ashore--

--to a reception which would--

--do honour to--

--a Queen. Good-bye--

--to the ship's captain, and Greta is home again. It's her first visit for-- --three years. The dockside is besieged and mounted police--

--are out to control the crowds. With her brother she-- --enters her waiting car. People rush forward, but the-- --illusive queen of the movies--

--is away. Her holiday destination is a secret. She's going to be alone, and that's what matters. "Says you !" "Shut up, George !"