INVITED TO "DROP IN"

FRENCH AIR FORCE VISIT.

Picture.:-

Machines of the French Air Force are escorted-- --by R.A.F. 'planes to Northolt. The French--
--squadron flew above the clouds. The R.A.F. flew below, so, curiously enough, they never saw each other until landing.

An R.A.F.--
--guard of honour awaits--
--the visitors. Air-Vice-Marshal Joubert de la Ferte, the British--
--Officer Commanding the Area greets the visiting crews.
The Vice-Marshal's name must-- --make them feel quite at home. General Massenet de Marancour-- --commands the guests' squadron, and inspects--
--the guard of honour. The Squadron will pay--
--visits to various British air stations, and will, of course, be socially entertained during their stay. The French machines look--
--very much like handsome air-liners, but, as you know,
"handsome is that handsome does!"
