

TO-DAY IN RUSSIA.

CZECHO-SOVIET DECLARATION.

Picture.:-

At Moscow Monsieur Litvineff greets Monsieur Benes,--
--Minister of Foreign Affairs. to-- --Czecho-Slovakia. The two countries have concluded an arrangement of mutual beneficial co-operation. Documents are now being signed, and are receiving the blessing of Monsieur Litvineff's cigarette--
--ash. The event is delightfully informal, as may be expected in so democratic--
--a country. Thereafter Dr. Benes visits the Park--
--of Culture and Rest in Moscow. It's a great place.
All the fun--
--of the fair. Children are taught to play under a games--
--leader. A similar post is being created-- --in several British schools, I understand.
The bigger children are--
--catered for by more grown-- --up thrills. Yes, it's a great place for the children, and it's name is the Park of-- --Culture and rest. Culture and Rest. -- hem ! hem !
