NEW LIFEBOAT.

INAUGURATED BY DUKE OF KENT.

---

Picture.

The guard-of-honour of members of the British Legion in inspected by the Duke of Kent--

--at Weston-super-Mare. The Duke has come to name and christen--

--the town's new lifeboat. His Royal Highness praises the crew--

--for their past work, and the--

--ceremony proper begins. The men man the boat, while hundreds of-- --holiday-makers wade into the water to get a better view of the-- --actual christening, which, by the way, was done--

--with a bottle of Somerset cider. The Duke boards the--

--boat, not too easy a job, to inspect its life-saving appliances. It's a most modern type of vessel,--

--motor driven, and is one of--

--five, generously donated by Mr.C.C. Ashley, and--

--oh, I forgot, it's name is 'Fifi and Charles'.
