

2812141

THE      "MAURETANIA"

Picture.:-

The famous 'Mauretania' passes beneath the Forth Bridge. It is the first time she has ever done so. It is the last time she will ever do so. A gale of wind is blowing abeam, but old though the ship may be, she's not decrepit, and she rides a squall without flinching. She has-- --given 28-years of Atlantic service.

This last shriek of her siren--

--is her swan-song. The engine-room signal clangs,--

--and the heart of her gives its last throb.

Her shuddering ceases. There remains a--

--hulk of scrap--

--metal, once the pride of the Atlantic. The 'Mauretania' that was !