Picture:- Germany ! On my right, if he would only stand still, Max Schmeling, ex-world heavyweight champion. On my left Paolino Uzcudun, of Barcelona, where the nuts come from. Most of the best hits -

--in this fight are--

--misses. Schmeling rocks the Spaniard occasionally with a heavy right, but the rocking doesn't send him to sleep. Fairly early in the fight Schmeling closed Paolino's right eye, but judging from-- --some of the--

--Spaniard's wild swings, he might have hit oftener if both had been shut. However, in the seventh round Paolino landed--

--two swings which made Schmeling think the Spaniard had padded his glove with a horse-shoe for luck. As fifty-thousand--

--Germans had paid--

--to see Schmeling win, the German ex-world champion replied with hard rights and lefts to the head. Result Schmeling won--

--nine rounds--

--out of twelve. A disappointing fight. No blood
