ROYAL NAVAL REVIEW.

THE KING WITH THE FLEET.

Picture.: One-thousand ships of Britain stand by to-- --greet their Lord High Admiral, His Majesty the King. Since the great Jubilee Day in May, royal spectacular climax has followed upon climax, but this unparalleled naval review spectacle has shot its bolt. Human imagination can create nothing more greatly British, more appealing to a sea-bred nation, than this panoply of might majestically spread before Majesty.

(EFFECTS - 8 SHOTS).

With the clearing of morning--

--mists, the Royal yacht 'Victoria--

--and Albert' cuts its way to take position--

--at the head of the line. She is led by the-- --Trinity House yacht 'Patricia', and followed by the Admiralty Yacht 'Enchantress'. Reaching-- --position flag-officers leave their ships to-- --present themselves to His Majesty. Gold braid is conspicuous, but not exclusive, for the-- --Prince of Wales presents civilian attired men of the Merchant Service to the King. On rows--

--of medals is written their imperishable record of service. A record--

--personally honoured by His Majesty--

--in consenting to this group photograph.

These kingly preliminaries are but the prelude--

--to greater moments. The Royal Yacht moves off. The-- --scene becomes almost inconceivably dramatic.

(EFFECTS - 7 SHOTS).

"Queen Elizabeth" is a fitting--

--name for the flagship, for Queen Elizabeth it was who laid the sure--

--foundations of Britain's sea power. Upon these--

--bridges of these great ships--

--must surely stand the shades of Drake, Frobisher, Hawkins, Nelson, viewing with pride and wonder, perhaps dismay, these merciless ships of steel.

PART TWO.

Picture.:-

His Majesty begins his Review. The Royal Yacht passes between the lines. Of the hundreds of-- --thousands of watchers on sea and shore, can there be one so emotionally dead as to be unaffected.

The spirit of this generation may be of the air, but its blood and bones are steeped in the salt of the sea.(EFFECTS).

(EFFECTS - 2 SHOTS).

Perhaps a few facts may not prove indigestible. In this--

--ocean city of ships live at least fifty-thousand men. These pictures were shot by special permission variously--

--from the decks of His Majesty's ships 'Queen Elizabeth', 'Nelson', 'London', 'Cairo', 'Victoria--

--and Albert', 'Enchantress' and a flying boat. Newsreel cameramen and assistants were on each of these ships and in the air, but the Naval Review of 1935 is not yet over. His Majesty is to lead his Fleet to sea for exercises. That's a thrilling story for the next news-reel issue. Meanwhile we salute--

--our Navy's Lord High Admiral His Gracious Majesty King George.
