

2-15-1911

SILK QUEEN ELECTED.
MACCLESFIELD CONTEST.

Picture.:-

The Silk Queen's term of office is at an end, so Macclesfield turns out in full force to elect her successor. So that there shall be no favouritism on the part of the judges the numbers carried by the competitors differ from those on the program. Apart from their looks, the girls are required to pass a test in conversation. Then the judges have to decide which of these charming silk-mill-workers shall be Queen for the current year.

That juggling with their numbers must be pretty confusing. Number Three carries

Number Six, Number Five - - oh well ! If you want to

'phone either of them, ask for the - - no, look up the next train !

Iris Barnes is the winner, so the judges were good judges.