Picture:- The great liner 'Majestic' comes into Southampton. On this particular return voyage, she carries Britain's land-speed record breaker, Sir Malcolm Campbell, fresh from world triumphs at Salt Lake, Utah. With Sir Malcolm is Lady Campbell. Both are obviously glad to be back/^{home}again. The welcome on the 'Majestic's deck is a civic one. The Mayor of Southampton greets Sir Malcolm, and America's Ambassador to Britain, Mr. R.W. Bingham, is another who brings his congratulations.

Sir Malcolm says that "he has no intention of retiring yet."

Before we left Southampton, I took a look at the 'Brompton Manor.' This unfortunate ship shows dreadful signs of the merciless battering she receives during the recent gale. Mrs. Turner, wife of the drowned ship's captain, was in the wheel-house when her husband was swept overboard from the bridge.

The same sea hurled poor Mrs. Turner from her seat, knocking her unconscious, so she was at least spared the agony of seeing her husband to to his death. The sea
