And here's another opening ceremony ! (Can't we shut something for a change ?).

This opening shows a pean of praise for Hull's enterprise. A derelict dock has been transformed into a People's Pleasure Garden. A worthy public work ! First of all the memorial to William Wilberforce is re-dedicated by Mrs. Reckitt, the great-grand daughter of the famous slave emancipator, and Councillor Tarran, who provided fifteen-hundred pounds for Monument's re-erection, and there are the new Queen's Gardens, Hull's latest pride.
