NEWS IN BRIEF.

(C). Picture:-

Well, it's nice to know that somebody in England has struck oil, and in a backyard too. At Catford, tons and tons of petrol have been discovered just below backyard surface. Investigations left everybody in the air, and one lighted match would have kept them there. After some days, answer to the riddle was found. A tank in a nearby public garage has been leaking for years, and the 150-tons of leak has settled here. You know, that ought to be stopped.
