

P O L I C E
ANNUAL INSPECTIONS.

Picture.:- There's great police activity this week. The London Specials are having a busy day at Armoury House. They are being inspected by Sir Stephen Killik, Lord Mayor of London.

Sir Stephen also presents trophies to special specials for special qualifications (Sorry about that !)

Sir Dudley Pryke, just another special, gets one for bowls. And after all that the march past. Many of the men are be-medalled ex-service, and their smartness still shows the mark of their military training. More Police activity is seen at Edinburgh. This is the annual Church Parade of the 'regular' Police. They have just been inspected at the Castle, and now enter St. Giles's Cathedral to take part in the special Church Service, at which Chief Constable Morren is to read the lesson. And not to be outdone by London and Edinburgh, Manchester Police march past Lieutenant Colonel

Brooke, D.S.O, His Majesty's

Inspector of Constabulary, and Chief Constable Maxwell. And the Force looks the last word in efficiency.

By gosh, there's been some button polishing lately !
