

NEWS IN BRIEF.

(A). Picture.:- The bells of St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, have received their first wash-and-brush-up. Their names are charity, joy, peace, patience (Caritas is charity), and other nice virtuous names. One bell was cracked.

Its name was modesty. As the bells weigh from two-tons downwards, moving them is rather a job. Charity is, of course, the greatest of them. They are now going back into the Cathedral, and will soon once again be heard calling the faithful to worship on Sunday mornings, and waking the unfaithful in time for a round of golf.

(B). Picture.:- In August, 1928, two Hungarian students started cycling round the world. Up to date they have visited sixty-three countries on five continents.

This part of their travels has taken them ninety-thousand miles.

They have also acquired a few club badges. They have had thrills in plenty, and been in many dangerous corners. The Lord Mayor of Cardiff wishes them luck on the further instalments of their adventuring. Ninety-thousand miles in a saddle !

At times it must have been a sore trial !
