

NEWS IN BRIEF.

(C). Picture.:- Crowds at St. Margaret's, Westminster, thrill to the sight of a charming bride, Miss Nancy Barry, daughter of Sir William and Lady Grace Barry, of Norwich. The bride's train is a little difficult. Oh ! Probably not used to wearing wedding dresses !

Feminine hearts accelerate as signs indicate the conclusion of the ceremony, and the appearance of the bride and bridegroom as husband and wife, pledged and finally completed.

The bridesmaids' dresses, like the bride's, are of ivory tinted satin of classical design. They carry crimson carnations. That train is beautiful, but it is difficult !

The bridegroom, (pardon me for almost forgetting) is Mr. Nigel Capel Cure, of Ongar, Essex, to whom, with wife, all happiness !

(B). Picture. :- Across the square the Houses of Parliament wake up. Mr. Stanley Baldwin, with his secretary Mr. Geoffrey Lloyd arrives for the re-assembling of the Commons, at which Sir Samuel Hoare will give, has given, his eagerly awaited speech. Sir John Gilmour is another easily recognised figure. Sir Samuel Hoare, however, arrives by car. The general election arrives on November 14th, and we will start paying tax for it on January 1st.
