

250541

"UNDER THE WEATHER"
VAST AREAS FLOODED.

Picture:-

England generally is rather damp at present. What with melting snow and pelting rain, rubber boots and umbrellas are the most fashionable wear, and cars really should be wearing floats.

Lots of roads are closed, although, where' there's a thirst, there's a way.

It's very difficult for farmers, because they are apt to find their hay-stacks floated off into somebody's field.

Miles of country-side look like inland seas, and these are not weeping willows, but they're pretty wet ones. In some flooded parts, instead of standing on the curb and calling a taxi, you sit up in a tree, and hail a ship !