SALMON AGAIN!

LOCH TAY SEASON OPENS.

Picture. :-

Fishers from the Kenmore Hotel on Loch Tay, prepare to draw a wicked hook, to trap a wary salmon. The hook looks fly, but isn't. The salmon thinks it's fly, but discovers that things aren't always what they seem.

All of which leads us, and the fishers, to Loch Tay, and the first salmon kill of the season. With

Highland ceremony a bottle of whisky is broken to cheer up the poor fish, and another supplies drinks to cheer up the poor fishers.

After that the boat is really pushed out, and the job of the day commences. Mr. Fisher Dunlop prefers paddling to punting, makes a cast, strikes, reels

in his line. The gaff comes into action, and the first kill is made. A fine fish of thirty pounds, and now you have heard a really true fishing story.
