MONSTER OF THE AIR.

THE HINDENBURG SAILS.

Picture.

The new German airship, the world's largest, Hindenburg, leaves Friedrichshafen on her flight over Germany, and her first Atlantic crossing. The first duty of the ship was apparently to assist in the election campaign. The carefully built up tense excitement of the people was increased by the appearance over the cities of this huge transport ship of the skies. However, it seems that one rather dissatisfied German was Doctor Eckener, the ship's designer. It is said that he objected to the vessel being used for an electioneering stunt, and dared to show his disagreement, which, in German, one understands, is not exactly polite. So it is possible that Doctor Eckener will be placed on the retired list for his frankness. (EFFECTS)

As the ship cruises over Berlin, the streets are packed with excited people who give the Nazi salute. I believe there's no truth in the rumour that for a week after the elections the people were allowed to salute with the left arm, because the right had been over-worked ! (EFFECTS).

However, Germany has every right to be proud of her achievement, and we congratulate the ship's designer
Doctor Eekener on his skill and courage. (EFFECTS)
