

LOVE LOTTERY.

29/1/54.

Jack Warner was the M.C. at the Hungaria Restaurant in London ^{when} ~~where~~ the Evening News draw was held to decide which lucky fan should go to the pictures with which film star --- and to ~~●~~ supper after the show. ~~The names were drawn out of a hat.~~

And as well as being M.C. --- Jack Warner was also in the competition.

Last but not least --- was Russian - born Mrs Nora Murray, whose partner was Anthony Steel. Evidently a Two-Power Conference later.

IRON FLOATS.

Here's a pile of nest-eggs for the American Navy. During the second World War, iron buoys were used for supporting anti-submarine nets; they're now being stored at the Naval Ammunition Depot in California, in case they're wanted again. Five feet in diameter, they weigh six hundred and eighty pounds each. And already the sea has given up 25,000 of them.

MAN OF IRON.

Here is a man from Melbourne, Australia, who might be used for almost any patent-medicine advertisement. Is your hair falling out? Do you suffer from indigestion?

That pain in your back like a knife --- it is a knife. What are you doing about that middle-age spread? Your head --- maybe it's cracked and you don't know it.
