

In Harringay Arena --- a fight for the European featherweight championship between Sammy McCarthy of Stepney, and the holder, Jean Sneyers of Belgium. It's Sneyers wearing the white stripe on his trunks. ^ It was a fifteen round contest; and McCarthy began it, with the ~~knowledge~~ memory that his last fight had brought him defeat at the hands of Ray Farnochon. / ~~The Belgian Sneyers was cool and composed and people always~~
~~the situation~~

The Stepney boy fought one of the most courageous fights ever seen in any ring; but in any exchange of blows it was always McCarthy who was getting ^{most of} the punishment / ~~with Sneyers riding high~~

Here's the last round; and gamely though McCarthy kept on trying, the fight was really over. ^ ~~THE BELGIAN SNEYERS WAS CLEARLY LEADING BY A BIG MARGIN OF~~
~~Swedish referee might have stopped the fight~~

For ~~the last few rounds~~ proved one thing only: ~~much courage~~ Sneyers was a worthy winner ^{POINTS.}
~~but~~ and McCarthy was a very gallant loser. / ^
