

And now to Florida. But not for any beach parade of languid lovelies. Daytona Beach ---- and a two-hundred-mile National Classic; with Death grinning over the shoulder of every rider.

BERLIN BOXING.

Boxing in Berlin between the German middleweight champion Hans Stretz and former Belgian champion Delmine. Stretz going down now. Delmine hit Stretz with three good ones and Stretz went down each time; but the fight was declared a draw. Our cameraman in Germany says the reason for this, was that although Delmine kept on knocking Stretz down, it was Stretz who had the technique. You wouldn't have thought it took so much technique to hit the floor.

In Britain too --- we've got boxers, with so much technique, they go down and stay down.

SKIDLIDS FOR THE R.A.C.

Mr Lennox Boyd, the Minister of Transport, handed over the first helmet when patrolmen of the R.A.C. were issued with skidlids as part of their standard equipment. As a demonstration of the sturdiness of this new headwear for the motor-cyclist, one of the patrolmen who weighs nearly eighteen stone, 250 pounds stood on one. Statistics say that fifty per cent of all motor-cyclist casualties have head injuries. Skidlids should save many lives.
