

Continuing the Wimbledon story --- the 1951 Wimbledon champion, Miss Deris Hart of America, had a Centre Court engagement with Miss J.F. Burke of New Zealand. It's Deris Hart serving now.

She won her match, 6 - 1, 6 - 2. ^

But it was the Trabert versus Wilson match, on No.1 Court, that provided the drama of this stage of the Wimbledon journey. The eighteen-year-old British player --- here he is now --- drawn against the Singles favourite, put on a magnificent show; and was beaten only by a narrow margin.

A gallant battle, which the mighty Trabert eventually won by 10 - 8, 8 - 6, 6 - 2. ^

Among the spectators with his son, was Mr Anthony Eden, relaxing before his flight to America. ^

Now the Men's Doubles; Trabert and Seixas at the far end --- versus Flam and Larsen.

This was a second-round match, and it was packed with incident in every one of the four sets ~~that~~ it took to settle it.

Here's another great rally --- with Trabert and Seixas once more at the far end.

They defeated Flam and Larsen by three sets to one.
