

Surrey: Fire-fighters in action at the R.A.F. Station, Kenley - in the Final of the Annual Inter-Command Championships. Designed to ensure the efficient use of station fire pumps in an emergency, the exercise well and truly hit the target.<sup>12</sup>

An Inter-Services competition <sup>BRINGS</sup> the Navy and the Air Force into opposition. A severe test of physical fitness - the teams have to man-handle their equipment in commando style - and then extinguish sixty-four feet of oil fire.<sup>12</sup>

The winners were the Navy School of Aircraft handlers, and Air Marshal Sir Harold Lydford presented the trophy.<sup>4</sup> 2

And in Vienna, a three-Nation Sports Meeting for the Occupation Forces - with America and France in a trial of strength.

The U.S. anchor-man was a real "dough-boy" but as the French pulled to victory - he collapsed like a cream puff.

Other teams challenged the tug-o'-war rivals in the "Dizzy-Izzy" race - a sort of relay merry-go-round.

It's ten revolutions on a stick - one over the eight - then one for the road.... Dizzy-izzy.....Iz-zy Dizzy?

Mr Know. Would you translate fire fighters
Only please.
